

Underwood & Underwood.

Running motor cars is war work for women. In England it is one of the duties of the Women's Legion.

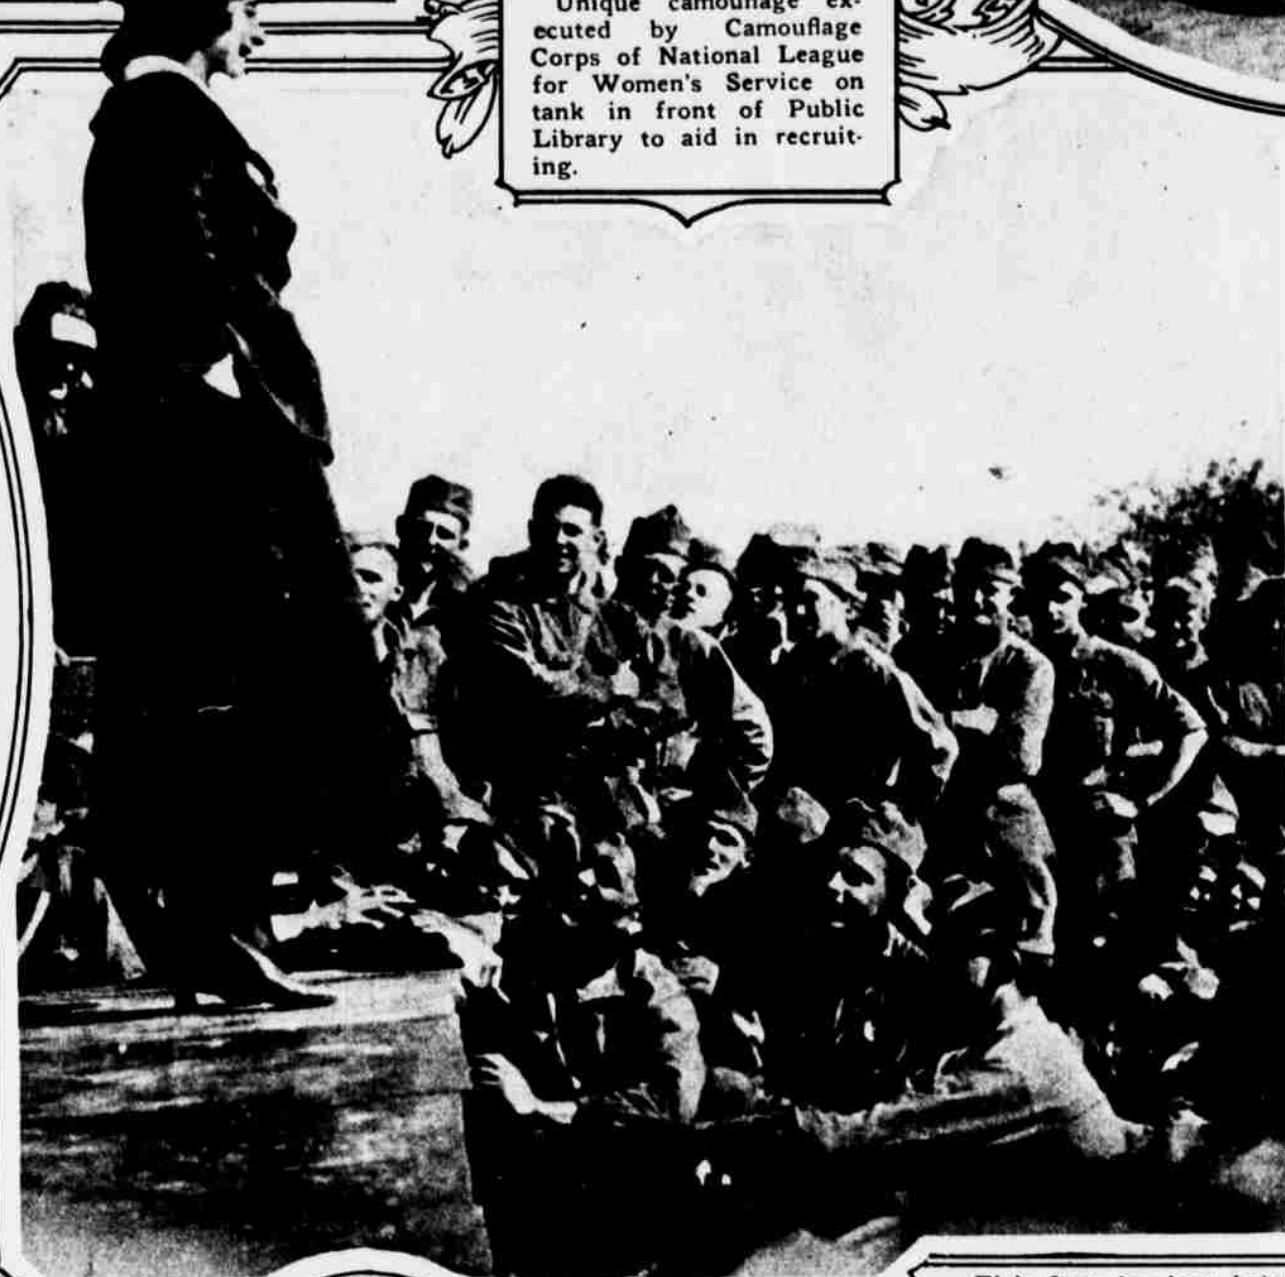

Photo from Underwood & Underwood.

Unique camouflage executed by Camouflage Corps of National League for Women's Service on tank in front of Public Library to aid in recruiting.

In the United States members of the National League for Women's Service and the Women's Motor Corps of America are driving cars. Mrs. M. Shannon Bowen is one of the volunteers.

Photo by Campbell Studios.

Elsie Janis has been helping the Y. M. C. A. to entertain American soldiers in France. That she has been successful may be inferred from the faces shown in the picture.

Copyright, Western Newspaper Union.

Miss Mary Van Kleeck, head of the new woman's division of the Department of Labor. To use women's services effectively in war industries is the purpose of the division.

Copyright, Clineinst.

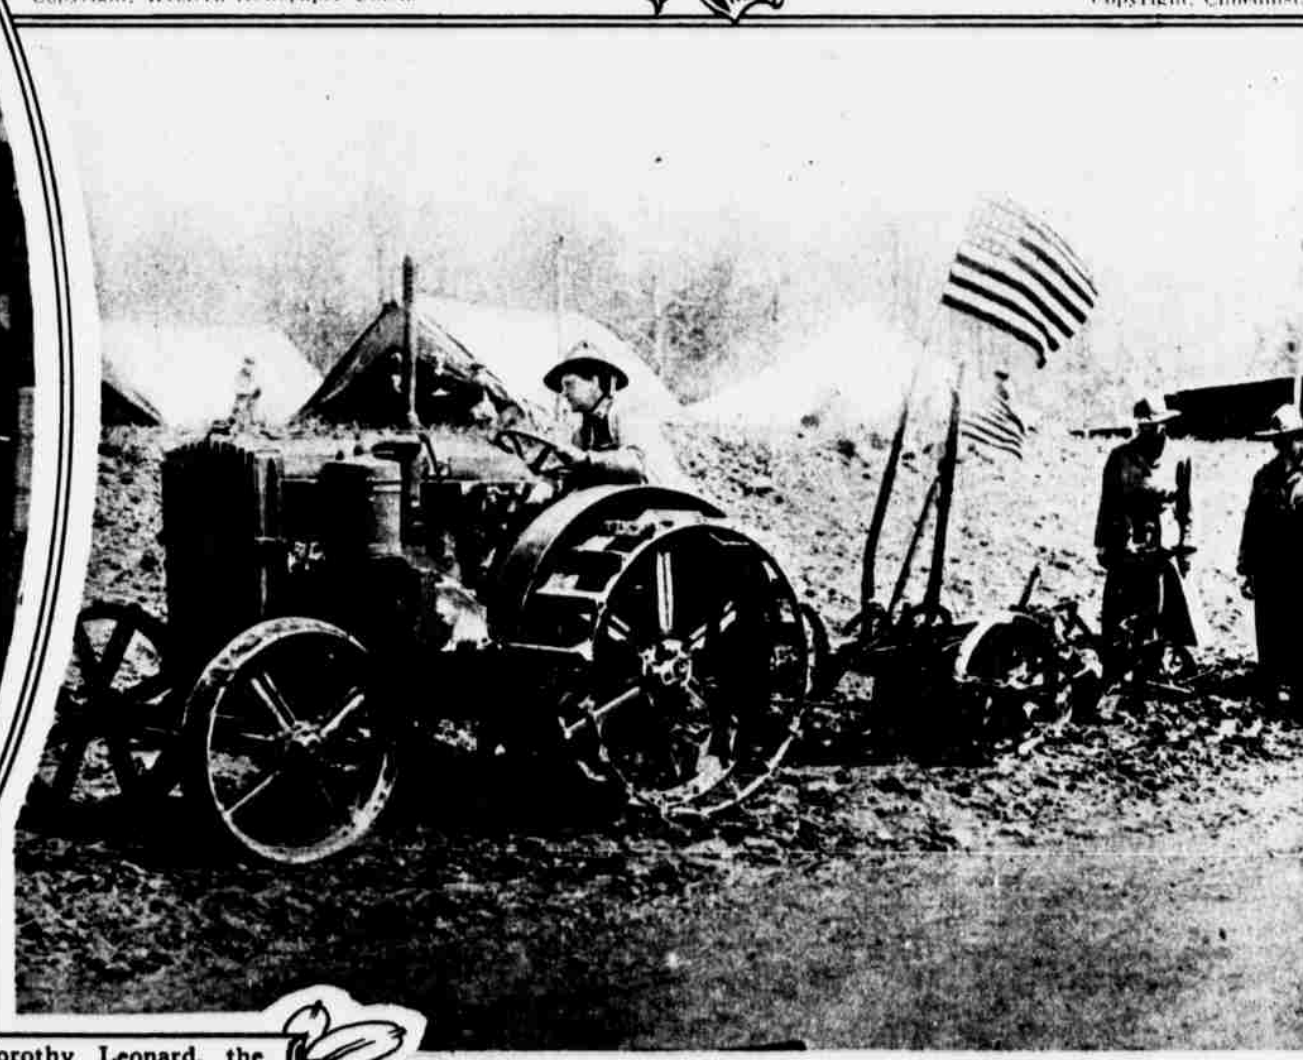

A little diversion for Red Cross sisters: A fishing contest on a British hospital barge on a canal in France.

British official. Copyright, Western Newspaper Union.

Miss Dorothy Leonard, the United Cigar Stores' first saleswoman. War makes it necessary for women to replace men here, too.

Photo by Bain.

In order to increase the food supply girls are being instructed in the use of the farm tractor at the National Service School of the Women's Naval Service.